Unit 8, Canal Industrial Park, Dumballs Road, Cardiff. CF10 5FE

On this week when we have remembered those that have given the ultimate sacrifice for the country we remember one of the greatest Wanderers. 80 years ago Sir Tasker Watkins was serving in the Welsh regiment in Northern France.

He received the Victoria cross for his gallantry (still recognised by the symbol STW-VC on the Wanderers shirts)

Here is the citation

In North-West Europe on the evening, of 16th August, 1944, Lieutenant Watkins was commanding a company of the Welch Regiment. The battalion was ordered to attack objectives near the railway at Bafour. Lieutenant Watkin's company had to cross open cornfields in which booby traps had been set. It was not yet dusk and the company soon came under heavy machine-gun fire from posts in the com and farther back, and also fire from an 88 mm. gun; many casualties were caused and the advance was slowed up.

Lieutenant Watkins, the only officer left, placed himself at the head of his men and under short range fire charged two posts in succession, personally killing or wounding the occupants with his Sten gun. On reaching his objective he found an anti-tank gun manned by a German soldier; his Sten gun jammed, so he threw it in the German's face and shot him with his pistol before he had time to recover.

Lieutenant Watkin's company now had only some 30 men left and was counter-attacked by 50 enemy infantry. Lieutenant Watkins directed the fire of his men and then led a bayonet charge, which resulted in the almost complete destruction of the enemy. It was now dusk and orders were given for the battalion to withdraw. These orders were not received by Lieutenant Watkin's company as the wireless set had been destroyed. They now found themselves alone and surrounded in depleted numbers and in failing light. Lieutenant Watkins decided to rejoin his battalion by passing round the flank of the enemy position through which he had advanced but while passing through the cornfields once more, he was challenged by an enemy post at close range. He ordered his men to scatter and himself charged the post with a Bren gun and silenced it. He then led the remnants of his company back to battalion headquarters.

His superb gallantry and total disregard for his own safety during an extremely difficult period were responsible for saving the lives of his men, and had a decisive influence on the course of the battle.

CHAIRMAN'S NOTES

A Warm Wanderers Welcome to our visitors Penallta on another fine Autumnal afternoon. Despite the clear skies, there is currently a gloomy outlook in relation to current results for the Home Team. Two closely contested games with Bedwas and the unbeaten Beddau, saw the Wands lose both, by a single score. Lots of pride and positives to take from those defeats however the loss to Talywain last week left all concerned extremely frustrated.

The coaches and players have been working ultra hard this week to put those defeats firmly in the Bin. Today Penallta will prove to be an even tougher test, due to their current formidable form. Last season the sides played two closely fought contests, which may have gone either way, luckily the Wands got the "Double".

Penallta sit one place above the Wands in 3rd, having one more victory, but suffered a narrow loss to Beddau last time out. The Home Squad have suffered a few key injuries of late and unavailabilities which may have impacted on performance. This offers those with a chance to state their case in the first team, which can only stimulate competition.

The Athletic play away at top of the Table St Josephs today, a stern test for those wanting a First Team Spot.

The Wands have been drawn away at Tondu in the Quarter Finals of the National Cup taking place on 7th December. Two steps away from the final is a mouth watering prospect.

On the Home Front, we are preparing for the Xmas Period and have activities organized by our staff and volunteers. The Girls Party is on December 8th, Mini/Juniors on the 15th and the Club's Xmas Kids Party with Santa is on the 21st. Tickets behind the bar.
